Grand Jury Urges Probe of Schools

Full Investigation of Finances, Administration by County Dept., Asked in Final Report of 1957

The Alameda County Grand Jury today called for a full-scale investigation into the financial operations of the County School Department and recommended drastic changes in its administration.

In their final report for 1957, filed with Superior Judge S. Victor Wagner, the jurors urged an audit of the school department's accounting methods and procedures, and said the investigation should also delve into the administration and supervision of school operations.

Bandits Hold Six Hostages; Surrender

INGLEWOOD, Dec. 30.—Two desperate gunmen walked through clouds of tear gas with their hands up today, surrendering after a dramatic three-hour fight in which they dickered for freedom while holding terrified hostages in a bar.

Scores of police officers surrounded the Beacon Cafe in this suburb 15 miles southwest of Los Angeles while hundreds of spectators watched as the tense drama was played out to its conclusion.

First, after negotiations for freedom were unsuccessful, one of the bandits threw out his gun and came out of the bar with his hands up.

Then the second bandit left by a back entrance into the hands of waiting officers. One of the first hostages to leave was a cocktail waitress who was crying from the tear gas. Another hostage, James Triggs, came out pleading for air.

The gunmen had threatened several times to kill the hostages if they were not given a car and allowed to escape. Police officers kept talking with them through a window and finally began using tear gas.

At first it was reported that one of the bandits trapped in the bar was Albert Kosta, an escaped convict who faces a murder charge.

But later it was determined that neither was Kosta. The two were taken to the Inglewood police station and booked on suspicion of robbery. They were identified as Howard Lee Scott and Roger Arnold Hoskins, both 19, of Inglewood.

Officers said that inside the bar, the two men had been talking to a woman who was identified as a prostitute.

Boy Scouts' Car Plunge Injures 10

Nine Oakland Lads, Leader Hurt in Roll Down Tamalpais

A station wagon loaded with Oakland Boy Scouts went off a soft shoulder on Mt. Tamalpais and toppled and rolled 150 feet down a steep slope, injuring nine Scouts and their Scoutmaster last night.

None was hurt seriously. The accident took place on Panoramic Highway six-tenths of a mile east of Bootjack Camp, in the darkness and fog.

Scoutmaster Lester Stewart, 49, of 2809 Forest Ave., Berkeley, told the California Highway Patrol he was driving a 1951 carry-all containing nine Scouts down the mountain when one of the boys became ill.

Like Approves Vast Student Aid Plan; $74 Billion Budget Seen, Few Cuts

Defense Needs May Top $40 Billion; Other Items Probably Will Hold Line

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The Eisenhower administration's first post-Sputnik budget may total nearly 74 billion dollars—a new peacetime record.

And Congress, alarmed by recent signs of Russian strides in missiles, satellite, and space science, is expected to give a friendly reception to at least the military part of the budget request for the fiscal year starting next June 30.

Defense items probably will account for about 40 billion dollars of the new budget total, an increase of more than a billion dollars over the current spending rate. Whatever budget cutting Congress may undertake may be aimed at requests for civilian programs. Present indications are that these requests may be held at previous levels, but not reduced appreciably.

President Eisenhower, who has been in an final budget preparations, said yesterday over-all government spending next year "apparently will be somewhere between 73 and 74 billion dollars, but closer to the high figure."

The current year's total has been running at the rate of about 72 billion dollars, but Secretary of Defense McElroy said recently he will ask for about one billion dollars more to push ahead more quickly in fiscal 1958 with missiles and other top priority military work.

The official who discussed spending plans said the administration hopes its fiscal 1959 budget will be in balance, and he indicated an effort will be made to compensate somewhat for stepped-up missiles outlays by reducing some other military programs.

"Within the military budget," he said, "there will be cutbacks in some areas and increased spending emphasis in newer areas. Total spending will be higher."

On the civilian side of the budget, he said, "the main idea will be to prevent any increase." This source said government officials are approaching a final decision on whether to ask Congress to approve a

'Wild' Criticism Rapped; Position Of U.S. Upheld

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said today a "chorus of destructionists" is creating unnecessary confusion about the Nation's missile and satellite programs.

Hickenlooper, a member of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, referred in an interview to Democratic critics who have contended that Administration complacency has permitted the United States to lag behind Russia in rocketry.

"There has been a lot of unnecessary confusion created by a whole chorus of destructionists about our defense program," he said. "Despite all the wild talk about how we are dropping behind Russia we have a tremendous number of missiles."

"I am satisfied that we are making good progress in the missile field," Hickenlooper's statement was in line with the weekend declaration of White House press secretary James C. Hagerty: "Stories that have been printed that indicate the United States is in a position of weakness at this time are not true."

He made the comment when asked about published reports that a special committee headed by H. Rowan Gathier Jr. had found U.S. defenses were comparatively weak, and that the country was in danger. The Gathier report itself still is top secret, Hagerty said, but he added it makes no such findings.

"The report says just the opposite," Hagerty said. "Without a loophole, the new regulations would force Western government officials entering West Berlin to seek East German visas unless they came by air. Air travel is not subject to communist checks."

"We have no intention of applying the East German visa rule to the East Germans for visas," commented a U.S. mission spokesman. Similar remarks came from the French and British.

The Allies planned to protest to the Russians. Allied diplomats were hopeful the restrictions would apply only to those on trip within East Germany and not on the 118-mile Autobahn-rail corridor from West Berlin to the border.

Program Seeks 10,000 Scholarships Annually, Would Improve Schools

GETTYSBURG, Dec. 30.—President Eisenhower today endorsed a plan calling for a billion dollar federal expenditure over four years to strengthen education, particularly in mathematics and science. It anticipates the states would put up about $800,000,000 additional in matching federal grants.

One part of the program provides for 10,000 college scholarships each year, to be paid entirely by the Federal Government. It is contemplated they would average about $700 to $800 a year. Need, as well as scholastic ability, would be a factor in their award.

The bulk of the money, however, would be spent to improve education in the high school level. And in this field the states would be expected to match federal allotments.

The plan was released after Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Folom conferred for an hour with the President.

CONGRESS FAVORABLE

Folom said he had talked about the program to congressmen and felt it would receive a favorable reception when it goes to Congress for approval.

Folom said the federal program would try to correct deficiencies in education "which if allowed to continue would seriously weaken our national security effort," and is an answer to Russia's continuing buildup in the science field.

But, in a news conference, Folom made it clear science and mathematics would not be stressed alone. He said the program would be aimed at bringing thousands more students into colleges.

The program calls for: Appropriation of $250,000,000 in the first year with a four-year total of one billion dollars.

Of this sum, about $800,000,000 is estimated as grants-in-aid program for the states.

A substantial increase in the appropriation for the National Science Foundation, which now has a budget of about $400,000,000 a year. Among other things, the foundation seeks to improve research, training, and teaching in the sciences.

The amount to be asked for the foundation was not specified, but Folom said that about $750,000,000, which he described as more than half, would be for its science education activities.

The proposed 50-50 grants to the states would be for such things as improving the teaching of science and mathematics. Folom indicated they could be made for construction of laboratories, among other things.

BUT THE PROGRAM SUBMITTED to the President, and receiving his endorsement, did not include past proposals for general federal aid for school construction.

NOT DISCUSSED

Asked about that, Folom replied that he preferred to confine his statements now to just what had been discussed with the President this morning.

The cabinet met this morning and again this afternoon but Bonn has denied it will before the resignations.

Pond Yields Bodies of 2 Boys

CRESCENT CITY, Dec. 30.—The bodies of two small boys, who had been missing since Dec. 12, were discovered face down today in a pond beneath a sawmill about a mile from here.

They were identified as Timmy Turner, 6, and Patrick Surgen, 7, both of Crescent City. The pair had disappeared from their homes after spending most of the day playing together. A week-long search for them failed.

Three Air Force men from nearby Bequa, made the discovery. They were Airman 2c Jerry Brown, Staff Sgt. Glenn Ringer and Tech. Sgt. Douglas Crawford.

Rain 'Possible' New Year's Eve

New Year's Eve celebrators in the Bay Area tomorrow night face the possibility of wet weather.

There is a chance of rain both tomorrow night and New Year's Day, the Weather Bureau said, although it is still uncertain. Three areas are off the Pacific Coast and there were no chance of predicting today just what will develop.

It will be partly cloudy tonight and earlier in the day tomorrow and temperatures will stay about the same. The high is estimated at 53 degrees, and the low at 48 degrees.

Father Takes Daughter, 3; Wife Tells His Threat to Kill

SAN MATEO, Dec. 30.—Air Force Sgt. John McRae took his 3-year-old daughter from her home at 1661 Fillmore St. McRae was home on leave from Beale Air Force Base near Marysville. Police were called to the home to settle the argument.

Early today, McRae called her San Mateo police department and accused his wife of "trying to kill Debra."

Later, he telephoned his wife and made the same accusation. He said he was going to kill the family, including Debra. McRae told police when McRae arrived at the house, Mrs. McRae, her son and daughter, and two friends were waiting in the living room. After the brief altercation he took the child.

Mrs. McRae told police she would sign a complaint accusing her husband of battery. She does not think he will harm the child, officers said.

Police explained there is no legal restriction on McRae leaving the child, because he was a three-day pass from Beale Air Force Base.

He and the child, who was wearing pajamas, but were seen on Bayshore Highway, driving toward Bayshore City.

LEN CASANOVA, coach of the Oregon Rose Bowl team:

"I hope the boys are setting an upset trend and that carries right on into 1958. Nothing would suit me and my boys better—but every game is played on its own merits so I figure we are just where we were."

WILLIAM D. CARLEY, Bureau of Budget official, calling for a policy of partnership of science with government:

"Science in government continues to prosper a side-line of separate and unrelated departmental missions."

It's 'Pennies From Heaven' For Frugal Newlyweds

By GEORGE ROSS

I hope they played "Pennies From Heaven" instead of "The Wedding March" for Al and Dixie in San Jose. Al Clements took Dixie Lane for his lawful wedded wife last Friday, concluding a courtship they financed a penny-at-a-time.

When they became engaged a year ago the kids—he's 20, she's 19—didn't set a date; they vowed they'd wait until they'd saved enough pennies—and only pennies—to pay for the ceremony.

The other day they doled out 200 pennies from a pickle jar to buy the license, counted out 1,000 for the preacher, 500 for the organist, 1,000 for a church janitorial fee, said their "I do's" in coppery-bright tones, and marched away as saucy and solvent as you please to start married life with an empty pickle jar and everyone's best wishes.

Country Ways

Politics is no bumbled business in the suburbs. Hardly had a citizen petitioner finished telling Fremont City Council his views on proposed annexation of adjacent Alvarado than the council voted "aye." City Manager Bob Cop called to aide Bob Carmody at the courthouse. Carmody filed the required maps, legal descriptions, notices of intention to circulate petitions . . . the cotton-pickin' works.

Barking Dogs Don't

All y'gotta do around here when barking dogs keep you awake is call the cops, but they got troubles in Crockett. The barking dog keeping Crockett awake lives across Carquinez Straits in Solano County and doesn't seem to be bothering anyone over there at all. . . . As he has for years, Harvey West of Placerville Lumber Co. hauled a truckload of Christmas trees to Folsom Prison, where there's hot competition in an inmate tree-trimming contest. And where there's hotter competition in bulb-snatching, tinsel-taking and ornament-robbing. Anybody can trim a tree; keeping it trimmed is the Absolute Art. . . . Same goes for Don Kimball in El Cerrito. As general chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's Outdoor Christmas Decorations Contest, Kimball said he'd not enter his own home display in the contest; instead it got entered by his wife. Maybe it's poetic justice his entry got scratched at the last minute; crooks packed it off piece by piece the night before the judging. . . . The way I hear it, the families came together for a holiday feast and the hostess caught a young nephew wiping his knife on the tablecloth. "Is that what you do at home?" she growled. "Oh no," the boy mumbled. "At home we have clean knives."

The Firing Line

The prize bores of the season, 'Iyaskme (and who did), are parents who buy guns for their pre-adolescents and turn the kids loose with no more instruction than they get for running a toy train.

Another one, a kid of 9, learned the hard way in Pittsburg the other day, and Daddy came alive and played the Big Man.

The kid was convinced the BBs weren't coming out of the barrel when he fired his new air rifle, put his left hand over the muzzle to find out. The gun, of course, worked perfectly.

Dad, now full of paternal responsibility, made everything right. Battered the gun to pieces.

Missing Caterpillar

Talk about HIG crime. The biggest unsolved crookery up the mountainside is theft of a 44,000-pound Caterpillar D7 tractor worth $25,000, spirited away from a logging area near Georgetown.

The huge machine has a 13-foot dozer blade in front, a log loader attachment on the rear, was 60 high when loaded on a getaway truck that power lines were ripped down and the cat's standup muffer pulled loose as they crawled along back-country roads—yet they got away with it clean.

Look for it, huh? Serial No. is 3T9505F8269, reward is $500, owner is Charlie Wentz, call Sheriff Ernie Carlson, Placerville.

watched as scores of police deployed around the area. Plainclothesmen armed with sawed off shotguns were on the cat. A ladder was put on the cat and officers stationed themselves on the roof. Other officers used an adjoining cat to give them cover.

The tense scene was played out in bright sunlight as police duckered through a window with the bandits, who kept demanding a cat to make a dash for freedom.

One of the bandits put a gun to the head of the cocktail waitress, Evelyn Shane, 37, when police threatened to use tear gas.

The drama started at 7:22 a.m. when the two bandits held up the cat in a business area at the intersection of Manchester and Olive in this suburban city.

Dr. W. G. Donald Of U.C. Dies at 67

Heart Attack Proves Fatal to Famed Physician

BERKELEY, Dec. 30 — Dr. William G. Donald, retired University of California physician and director of the student health service, died today of a heart attack. He was 67.

Dr. Donald, associated with the university for 34 years before his retirement last June, was responsible for developing the U.C. student health services into a model institution.

He succumbed at his home at 927 San Benito Road while apparently recovering from an earlier attack.

Dr. Donald was one of the most prominent physicians in the state. He was graduated from the University of California in 1911 and in 1923 received his medical degree from the university's San Francisco center.

GETS U.C. POST

That same year, he was made acting physician at U.C. and was made permanent university physician and director of the student health service in 1928.

Dr. Donald, a widower, married the former Donna Rhine McDonald in 1931 when she was 25 and a senior student at U.C.

They had a daughter, Moore Jean, Sept. 11, 1936, when he was 66.

From 1912-14 Dr. Donald was graduate manager of the Associated Students on the Berkeley campus. Later he sold life insurance and served in the Army sanitary corps in World War I. For 15 years he was physician in charge of athletics on the campus.

ASSOCIATION HEAD

In 1947, Dr. Donald was named president of the then Alameda County Medical Association.

Beside his wife and young daughter, he is survived by two sons and a daughter by a previous marriage: Dr. William G. Donald Jr., who was in practice with his father; Edward O., of Pasadena; Mrs. Patricia Edwards, of Carmel; brother, Dr. John Hugh Donald Jr., a Sacramento dentist; sisters, Mrs. Ernest Murray and Mrs. Otto Roeder, both of Tacoma, Wash.; and eight grandchildren.

Dr. Donald was a native of San Francisco.

Jury Asks Probe Of County Schools

Interest in school," the report added.

Nine other key recommendations made by the 18 men and women who ended their nine-month tenure with the 15-page report:

- 1—There is an urgent need for remedial legislation at the federal, state and county levels to curtail the trend toward further liberalization of welfare payments . . . and to prevent fraudulent claims.
- 2—The 1958 grand jury should conduct an audit of the recently state-ordered medical care program for relief recipients to prevent "improper burdens on the taxpayer."
- 3—The speed limit on the Eastshore Freeway should be reduced from 55 to 40 miles an hour in Oakland, San Leandro and Hayward.

INVESTMENT PROGRAM

- 4—The county treasurer should get "capable outside consultation" and make a painstaking review of the investment program to ascertain if more county funds should not be invested in interest-bearing securities.
- 5—The county should overhaul its entire bookkeeping system and institute one system for all departments.
- 6—An investigation should be made to determine if the county should become self-insured like the City of Oakland, instead of buying liability insurance.
- 7—"Several thousand dollars of tax money" could be saved by abandoning the county's tuberculosis sanitarium at Arroyo del Valle and transferring the patients to Fairmont Hospital.

8—More probation officers should be assigned to Santa Rita to supervise juveniles housed there until the California Youth Authority can expand its facilities to relieve the county of this burden. The CYA should get busy on this program, too.

RUSSELL CITY PROBLEM

9—The Russell City area, long considered by grand jurors as the county's top slum problem, should be zoned for industry. The Russell City Community Service District should be dissolved and a uniform housing code should be adopted for the unincorporated area of the county.

In other sections of the report the jurors recommended that the Board of Supervisors consider the wisdom and possible economy of having a single all-inclusive grand jury audit rather than having several district audits.

The supervisors were criticized by the jurors for failing to study the accounts receivable of the veterans' memorial buildings of the county which are under their control.

"Proper charges for these buildings are not being made," the report said.

The jurors also recommended that the supervisors abandon their "pay as you go" policy insofar as capital expenditure projects are concerned. This would expedite the county's building program, the report said.

INACTIVE ACCOUNTS

Elaborating on the recommendations to the county treasurer, the jurors noted that the county is carrying $25,000,000 in "inactive" accounts that are used for short term investments.

Some of this fund should be transferred from 30-day accounts to 90-day accounts in order to produce greater interest. Every $1,000,000 in a 30-day account produces $833 in interest while the same amount in a 90-day account yields $2,083 at a minimum.

The jurors also urged expansion of the county's new collections agency to include all departments and urged the supervisors to move immediately to implement this suggestion along with the recommendation for a uniform county bookkeeping system.

Copies of the jurors' final report were delivered to every department head with instructions to head the recommended changes without delay or report to County Administrator Strathman reasons for not complying.

Thad B. McCarty was jury foreman, while Mrs. Maxine Hector served as secretary.

"I got along just fine," he later told a reporter. "I just sat there smoking cigarettes and drinking Scotch." Naymla said he had a revolver and fired it once as a warning to police that it would be dangerous to come in.

"I could have shot at them but I just didn't want to," said the bar owner. "I couldn't bring myself to do it. I didn't want to hit an innocent person."

But later the men were identified as Howard Ler Scott, 19, and Roger Arnold Hoskins, 19, both of Ingleswood.

$1,250 Stolen From Richmond Market

RICHMOND, Dec. 30.—Nearly $1,250 in currency mysteriously disappeared from the cash box in a grocery store while the market was open yesterday, police reported today.

Store owner Edward K. Buckner is at 1530 Pennsylvania Ave., told officers the money was taken from the box in a drawer in the meat department.

Buckner, who lives at 730 17th St., said he had no idea of who could have taken the money, the weekend receipts.
